DETAILED ACTION

Priority

1. Receipt is acknowledged of papers submitted under 35 U.S.C. 119(a)-(d), which papers have been placed of record in the file.

Specification

2. Applicant is reminded of the proper language and format for an abstract of the disclosure.

The abstract should be in narrative form and generally limited to a single paragraph on a separate sheet within the range of 50 to 150 words. It is important that the abstract not exceed 150 words in length since the space provided for the abstract on the computer tape used by the printer is limited. The form and legal phraseology often used in patent claims, such as "means" and "said," should be avoided. The abstract should describe the disclosure sufficiently to assist readers in deciding whether there is a need for consulting the full patent text for details.

The language should be clear and concise and should not repeat information given in the title. It should avoid using phrases which can be implied, such as, "The disclosure concerns," "The disclosure defined by this invention," "The disclosure describes," etc.

-In the abstract section, the form and legal phraseology often used in patent claims such as "means" and "said" should avoided. For example, in the abstract, the phrases "said digital signals" and "said timing regenerating circuits" should be avoided. Correction is required.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

3. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(e) the invention was described in (1) an application for patent, published under section 122(b), by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent or (2) a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention by the applicant for patent, except that an international application filed under the treaty defined in section 351(a) shall have the effects for purposes of this subsection of an application filed in the United States only if the international application designated the United States and was published under Article 21(2) of such treaty in the English language.

4. Claims 1, 10 and 11 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being anticipated by Morkel (US Patent No. 6,476,953).

Regarding claims 1, 10 and 11, referring to Figure 1, Morkel discloses 1. A wavelength converter comprising:

an optical/electrical signal converter (i.e., O/E converter 14, Fig. 1) for converting input optical signals into electric digital signals;

a clock generation unit (i.e., clock extract 16, Fig. 1) connected to the optical/electrical signal converter for automatically identifying a signal transmission mode for the electrical digital signals and generating phase-synchronized clock signals with a specified frequency that matches the signal transmission mode;

a timing regeneration circuit (i.e., D-type FF 18, Fig. 1) connected to the clock generation unit for regenerating a clock timing for the electrical digital signals based upon the phase-synchronized clock signals that are generated from the clock generation unit; and an electrical/optical converter(i.e., E/O converter 20, Fig. 1) connected to the timing regeneration circuit for converting the electrical digital signals that are outputted from the timing regeneration circuit into optical signals with a specified wavelength for wavelength-division multiplexed transmission (col. 4, lines 11-50).

Allowable Subject Matter

5. Claim 2 is objected to as being dependent upon a rejected base claim, but would be allowable if rewritten in independent form including all of the limitations of the base claim and any intervening claims.

6. Claims 3-9 are allowed.

Conclusion

7. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure.

Anderson (US Patent No. 5,987,085) discloses clock recovery circuit.
